

TOP 10 THINGS FACULTY SHOULD KNOW ABOUT PURDUE LIBRARIES AND SCHOOL OF INFORMATION STUDIES

---

1. We offer a data repository and other publication guidance!

The Purdue University Research Repository (PURR) offers Data Management Plan (DMP) support and guidance, to assist you from planning to publication.

2. We can help you with your ORCID account!

ORCID allows you to contribute your scholarship to Purdue's global rankings. Please contact us if you need help creating, managing, or connecting your account.

3. We have publishing services!

We have resources available to help you along your publishing journey, from print to digital, for purchase or open access, and articles to books.

4. We provide copyright assistance!

The University Copyright Office (UCO) is available to provide information and guidance on using copyrighted works for teaching and research, and advises on the creation of copyrighted works to faculty, staff, and students.

5. We can assist with systematic reviews!

We offer opportunities for systematic reviews and knowledge synthesis.

6. We provide course assistance!

We have subject liaisons available to support you, your assignments, and your coursework, and can create course reserves, add library reading lists to your Brightspace course, incorporate streaming video in your courses, request print material, and find or develop a library research guide for your course.

7. We provide access to subscriptions!

Your Purdue ID gives you access to journal subscriptions, as well as Kanopy, a streaming service made exclusively for libraries, and The New York Times through our libraries.

8. We have archives!

The Virginia Kelly Karnes Archives and Special Collections Research Center, located on the fourth floor of the HSSE library in Stewart Center, is home of Purdue Archives and Special Collections. You can visit and view collections on Amelia Earhart, Neil Armstrong, and other notable alumni.

9. We offer a wide variety of services!

Borrow and renew books from Purdue Libraries or through InterLibrary Loan, print, copy, and scan documents, and more.

10. Find us @purduelibraries on social media!

Like us on Facebook, follow us on Instagram and X, and subscribe to our YouTube Shorts channel to stay up to date with the latest news on Purdue Libraries and School of Information Studies.